In the three years since it began Earthtime Practice retreats have evolved as an offering for people who:

- Acknowledge that the divine is made manifest through nature
- Want to be in intimate reciprocal relationship with all of nature, their own multi-dimensional and essential self, the invisible world, magic, Mystery, and the Divine in all its aspects.
- Want to explore energetic protocols for practicing with others from different bodies of faith
- Are willing to make their soul's evolution a priority in their lives
- Want to build on and grow their faith, whatever that faith is

Earthtime Practice retreats are not a good fit for people who are:

- Looking for a teacher, guru, method, or a psychological process
- Looking for rest and relaxation
- Unable or unwilling to make time in their lives for soul work
- Coming to the retreat to socialize or network
- Looking for professional development or new career opportunities
- Looking for therapy or a place to process their psychological issues in a group setting
- Trying to spread a particular faith or path
- Skeptics or agnostics

Earthtime Application Questions

- 1) How did you find out about Earthtime?

- 2) What are the ways that you have prioritized your soul work in your life?

- 3) How would you describe your level of commitment to your spiritual practice?

- 4) What intuitive or reflective approaches are you using/have you used?

- 5) What do you think you bring to a strong circle of practice, and what are your expectations for being in a strong circle of practice?

I understand that if enrolled I will attend the entire 3-day program. Payment is due upon acceptance to the program.
